APPENDIX A

THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT (ACT OF AUGUST 14,
1935, c. 531, 49 STAT. 620, U. S. C., SUPP. II, TITLE 42, C. 7)

[H. R. 7260]

AN ACT To provide for the general welfare by establishing a system of Federal old-age benefits, and by enabling the several States to make more adequate provision for aged persons, blind persons, dependent and crippled children, maternal and child welfare, public health, and the administration of their unemployment compensation laws; to establish a Social Security Board, to raise revenue, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

TITLE I—GRANTS TO STATES FOR OLD-AGE ASSISTANCE

APPROPRIATION

SECTION 1. For the purpose of enabling each State to furnish financial assistance, as far as practicable under the conditions in such State, to aged needy individuals, there is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1936, the sum of $49,750,000, and there is hereby authorized to be appropriated for each fiscal year thereafter a sum sufficient to carry out the purposes of this title. The sums made available under this section shall be used for making payments to States which have submitted, and had approved by the Social Security Board established by Title VII (hereinafter referred to as the "Board"), State plans for old-age assistance.

STATE OLD-AGE ASSISTANCE PLANS

SEC. 2. (a) A State plan for old-age assistance must (1) provide that it shall be in effect in all political subdivisions of the State, and, if administered by them, be mandatory upon them; (2) provide for financial participation by the State; (3) either provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer the plan, or provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to supervise the administration of the plan; (4) provide for granting to any individual, whose claim for old-age assistance is denied, an opportunity for a fair hearing before such State agency; (5) provide such methods of administration (other than those relating to selection, tenure of office, and compensation of personnel) as are found by the Board to be necessary for the efficient operation of the plan; (6) provide that the State agency will make such reports, in such form and containing such information, as the Board may from time to time require, and comply with such provisions as the Board may from time to time find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of such reports; and (7) provide that, if the State or any of its political subdivisions collects from the estate of any recipient of old-age assistance any amount with respect to old-age assistance furnished him under the plan, one-half of the net amount so collected shall be promptly paid to the United States. Any payment so made shall be deposited in the Treasury to the credit of the appropriation for the purposes of this title.

(b) The Board shall approve any plan which fulfills the conditions specified in subsection (a), except that it shall not approve any plan which imposes, as a condition of eligibility for old-age assistance under the plan—

(1) An age requirement of more than sixty-five years, except that the plan may impose, effective until January 1, 1940, an age requirement of as much as seventy years; or

(2) Any residence requirement which excludes any resident of the State who has resided therein five years during the nine years immediately preceding the application for old-age assistance and has resided therein continuously for one year immediately preceding the application; or

(3) Any citizenship requirement which excludes any citizen of the United States.

PAYMENT TO STATES

SEC. 3. (a) From the sums appropriated therefor, the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to each State which has an approved plan for old-age assistance, for each quarter, beginning with the quarter commencing July 1, 1935, (1) an amount, which shall be used exclusively as old-age assistance, equal to one-half of the total of the sums expended during such quarter as old-age assistance under the State plan with respect to each individual who at the time of such expenditure is sixty-five years of age or older and is not an inmate of a public institution, not counting so much of such expenditure with respect to any individual for any month as exceeds $30, and (2) 5 per centum of such amount, which shall be used for paying the costs of administering the State plan or for old-age assistance, or both, and for no other purpose: Provided, That the State plan, in order to be approved by the Board, need not provide for financial participation before July 1, 1937, by the State, in the case of any State which the Board, upon application by the State and after reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing to the State, finds is prevented by its constitution from providing such financial participation.

(b) The method of computing and paying such amounts shall be as follows:

(1) The Board shall, prior to the beginning of each quarter, estimate the amount to be paid to the State for such quarter under the provisions of clause (1) of subsection (a), such estimate to be based on (A) a report filed by the State containing its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter in accordance with the provisions of such clause, and stating the amount appropriated or made available by the State and its political subdivisions for such expenditures in such quarter, and if such amount is less than one-half of the total sum of such estimated expenditures, the source or sources from which the difference is expected to be derived, (B) records showing the number of aged individuals in the State, and (C) such other investigation as the Board may find necessary.

(2) The Board shall then certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount so estimated by the Board, reduced or increased, as the case may be, by any sum by which it finds that its estimate for any prior quarter was greater or less than the amount which should have been paid to the State under clause (1) of subsection (a) for such quarter, except to the extent that such sum has been applied to make the amount certified for any prior quarter greater or less than the amount estimated by the Board for such prior quarter.

(3) The Secretary of the Treasury shall thereupon, through the Division of Disbursement of the Treasury Department and prior to audit or settlement by the General Accounting Office, pay to the State, at the time or times fixed by the Board, the amount so certified, increased by 5 per centum.

OPERATION OF STATE PLANS

SEC. 4. In the case of any State plan for old-age assistance which has been approved by the Board, if the Board, after reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing to the State agency administering or supervising the administration of such plan, finds—

(1) that the plan has been so changed as to impose any age, residence, or citizenship requirement prohibited by section 2 (b), or that in the administration of the plan any such prohibited requirement is imposed, with the knowledge of such State agency, in a substantial number of cases; or the Board shall notify such State agency that further payments will not be made to the State until the Board is satisfied that such prohibited requirement is no longer so imposed, and that there is no longer any such failure to comply. Until it is so satisfied it shall make no further certification to the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to such State.

ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 5. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the sum of $250,000, for all necessary expenses of the Board in administering the provisions of this title.

DEFINITION

SEC. 6. When used in this title the term "old-age assistance" means money payments to aged individuals.

TITLE II—FEDERAL OLD-AGE BENEFITS

OLD-AGE RESERVE ACCOUNT

SECTION 201. (a) There is hereby created an account in the Treasury of the United States to be known as the "Old-Age Reserve Account" hereinafter in this title called the "Account." There is hereby authorized to be appropriated to the Account for each fiscal year, beginning with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, an amount sufficient as an annual premium to provide for the payments required under this title, such amount to be determined on a reserve basis in accordance with accepted actuarial principles, and based upon such tables of mortality as the Secretary of the Treasury shall from time to time adopt, and upon an interest rate of 3 per centum per annum compounded annually. The Secretary of the Treasury shall submit annually to the Bureau of the Budget an estimate of the appropriations to be made to the Account.

(b) It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to invest such portion of the amounts credited to the Account as is not, in his judgment, required to meet current withdrawals. Such investment may be made only in interest-bearing obligations of the United States or in obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States. For such purpose such obligations may be acquired (1) on original issue at par, or (2) by purchase of outstanding obligations at the market price. The purposes for which obligations of the United States may be issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, are hereby extended to authorize the issuance at par of special obligations exclusively to the Account. Such special obligations shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum. Obligations other than such special obligations may be acquired for the Account only on such terms as to provide an investment yield of not less than 3 per centum per annum.

(c) Any obligations acquired by the Account (except special obligations issued exclusively to the Account) may be sold at the market price, and such special obligations may be redeemed at par plus accrued interest.

(d) The interest on, and the proceeds from the sale or redemption of, any obligations held in the Account shall be credited to and form a part of the Account.

(e) All amounts credited to the Account shall be available for making payments required under this title.

(f) The Secretary of the Treasury shall include in his annual report the actuarial status of the Account.

OLD-AGE BENEFIT PAYMENTS

SEC. 202. (a) Every qualified individual (as defined in section 210) shall be entitled to receive, with respect to the period beginning on the date he attains the age of sixty-five, or on January 1, 1942, whichever is the later, and ending on the date of his death, an old-age benefit (payable as nearly as practicable in equal monthly installments) as follows:

(1) If the total wages (as defined in section 210) determined by the Board to have been paid to him, with respect to employment (as defined in section 210) after December 31, 1936, and before he attained the age of sixty-five, were not more than $3,000, the old-age benefit shall be at a monthly rate of one-half of 1 per centum of such total wages;

(2) If such total wages were more than $3,000, the old-age benefit shall be at a monthly rate equal to the sum of the following:

(A) One-half of 1 per centum of $3,000; plus

(B) One-twelfth of 1 per centum of the amount by which such total wages exceeded $3,000 and did not exceed $45,000; plus

(C) One-twenty-fourth of 1 per centum of the amount by which such total wages exceeded $45,000.

(b) In no case shall the monthly rate computed under subsection (a) exceed $85.

(c) If the Board finds at any time that more or less than the correct amount has theretofore been paid to any individual under this section, then, under regulations made by the Board, proper adjustments shall be made in connection with subsequent payments under this section to the same individual.

(d) Whenever the Board finds that any qualified individual has received wages with respect to regular employment after he attained the age of sixty-five, the old-age benefit payable to such individual shall be reduced, for each calendar month in any part of which such regular employment occurred, by an amount equal to one month's benefit. Such reduction shall be made, under regulations prescribed by the Board, by deductions from one or more payments of old-age benefit to such individual.

PAYMENTS UPON DEATH

SEC. 203. (a) If any individual dies before attaining the age of sixty-five, there shall be paid to his estate an amount equal to $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the total wages determined by the Board to have been paid to him, with respect to employment after December 31, 1936.

(b) If the Board finds that the correct amount of the old-age benefit payable to a qualified individual during his life under section 202 was less than $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the total wages by which such old-age benefit was measurable, then there shall be paid to his estate a sum equal to the amount, if any, by which such $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum exceeds the amount (whether more or less than the correct amount) paid to him during his life as old-age benefit.

(c) If the Board finds that the total amount paid to a qualified individual under an old-age benefit during his life was less than the correct amount to which he was entitled under section 202, and that the correct amount of such old-age benefit was $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum or more of the total wages by which such old-age benefit was measurable, then there shall be paid to his estate a sum equal to the amount, if any, by which the correct amount of the old-age benefit exceeds the amount which was so paid to him during his life.

PAYMENTS TO AGED INDIVIDUALS NOT QUALIFIED FOR BENEFITS

SEC. 204. (a) There shall be paid in a lump sum to any individual who, upon attaining the age of sixty-five, is not a qualified individual, an amount equal to $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the total wages determined by the Board to have been paid to him, with respect to employment after December 31, 1936, and before he attained the age of sixty-five.

(b) After any individual becomes entitled to any payment under subsection (a), no other payment shall be made under this title in any manner measured by wages paid to him, except that any part of any payment under subsection (a) which is not paid to him before his death shall be paid to his estate.

AMOUNTS OF $500 OR LESS PAYABLE TO ESTATES

SEC. 205. If any amount payable to an estate under section 203 or 204 is $500 or less, such amount may, under regulations prescribed by the Board, be paid to the persons found by the Board to be entitled thereto under the law of the State in which the deceased was domiciled, without the necessity of compliance with the requirements of law with respect to the administration of such estate.

OVERPAYMENTS DURING LIFE

SEC. 206. If the Board finds that the total amount paid to a qualified individual under an old-age benefit during his life was more than the correct amount to which he was entitled under section 202, and was $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum or more of the total wages by which such old-age benefit was measurable, then upon his death there shall be repaid to the United States by his estate the amount, if any, by which such total amount paid to him during his life exceeds whichever of the following is the greater: (1) Such $3\frac{1}{2}$ per centum, or (2) the correct amount to which he was entitled under section 202.

METHOD OF MAKING PAYMENTS

SEC. 207. The Board shall from time to time certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the name and address of each person entitled to receive a payment under this title, the amount of such payment, and the time at which it should be made, and the Secretary of the Treasury through the Division of Disbursement of the Treasury Department, and prior to audit or settlement by the General Accounting Office, shall make payment in accordance with the certification by the Board.

ASSIGNMENT

SEC. 208. The right of any person to any future payment under this title shall not be transferable or assignable, at law or in equity, and none of the moneys paid or payable or rights existing under this title shall be subject to execution, levy, attachment, garnishment, or other legal process, or to the operation of any bankruptcy or insolvency law.

PENALTIES

SEC. 209. Whoever in any application for any payment under this title makes any false statement as to any material fact, knowing such statement to be false, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 210. When used in this title—

(a) The term “wages” means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include that part of the remuneration which, after remuneration equal to $3,000 has been paid to an individual by an employer with respect to employment during any calendar year, is paid to such individual by such employer with respect to employment during such calendar year.

(b) The term "employment" means any service, of whatever nature, performed within the United States by an employee for his employer, except—

- (1) Agricultural labor;
- (2) Domestic service in a private home;
- (3) Casual labor not in the course of the employer's trade or business;
- (4) Service performed as an officer or member of the crew of a vessel documented under the laws of the United States or of any foreign country;

- (7) Service performed in the employ of a corporation, community chest, fund, or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

(c) The term "qualified individual" means any individual with respect to whom it appears to the satisfaction of the Board that—

- (1) He is at least sixty-five years of age; and
- (2) The total amount of wages paid to him, with respect to employment after December

31, 1936, and before he attained the age of sixty-five, was not less than $2,000; and

(3) Wages were paid to him, with respect to employment on some five days after December 31, 1936, and before he attained the age of sixty-five, each day being in a different calendar year.

TITLE III—GRANTS TO STATES FOR UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION ADMINISTRATION

APPROPRIATION

SECTION 301. For the purpose of assisting the States in the administration of their unemployment compensation laws, there is hereby authorized to be appropriated, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the sum of $4,000,000, and for each fiscal year thereafter the sum of $49,000,000, to be used as hereinafter provided.

PAYMENTS TO STATES

SEC. 302. (a) The Board shall from time to time certify to the Secretary of the Treasury for payment to each State which has an unemployment compensation law approved by the Board under Title IX, such amounts as the Board determines to be necessary for the proper administration of such law during the fiscal year in which such payment is to be made. The total credit allowed to a taxpayer under this section for all contributions paid into unemployment funds with respect to employment during such taxable year shall not exceed 90 per centum of the tax against which it is credited, and credit shall be allowed only for contributions made under the laws of States certified for the taxable year as provided in section 903.

CERTIFICATION OF STATE LAWS

SEC. 903. (a) The Social Security Board shall approve any State law submitted to it, within thirty days of such submission, which it finds provides that—

(c) If, at any time during the taxable year, the Board has reason to believe that a State whose law it has previously approved, may not be certified under subsection (b), it shall promptly so notify the Governor of such State.

UNEMPLOYMENT TRUST FUND

SEC. 904. (a) There is hereby established in the Treasury of the United States a trust fund to be known as the Unemployment Trust Fund, hereinafter in this title called the Fund. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to receive and hold in the Fund all moneys deposited therein by a State agency from a State unemployment fund. Such deposit may be made directly with the Secretary of the Treasury or with any Federal reserve bank or member bank of the Federal Reserve System designated by him for such purpose.

(b) It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to invest such portion of the Fund as is not, in his judgment, required to meet current withdrawals. Such investment may be made only in interest-bearing obligations of the United States or in obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States. For such purpose such obligations may be acquired (1) on original issue at par, or (2) by purchase of outstanding obligations at the market price. The purposes for which obligations of the United States may be issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, are hereby extended to authorize the issuance at par of special obligations exclusively to the Fund. Such special obligations shall bear interest at a rate equal to the average rate of interest, computed as of the end of the calendar month next preceding the date of such issue, borne by all interest-bearing obligations of the United States then forming part of the public debt; except that where such average rate is not a multiple of one-eighth of 1 per centum, the rate of interest of such special obligations shall be the multiple of one-eighth of 1 per centum next lower than such average rate. Obligations other than such special obligations may be acquired for the Fund only on such terms as to provide an investment yield not less than the yield which would be required in the case of special obligations if issued to the Fund upon the date of such acquisition.

(c) Any obligations acquired by the Fund (except special obligations issued exclusively to the Fund) may be sold at the market price, and such special obligations may be redeemed at par plus accrued interest.

(d) The interest on, and the proceeds from the sale or redemption of, any obligations held in the Fund shall be credited to and form a part of the Fund.

(e) The Fund shall be invested as a single fund, but the Secretary of the Treasury shall maintain a separate book account for each State agency and shall credit quarterly on March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31, of each year, to each account, on the basis of the average daily balance of such account, a proportionate part of the earnings of the Fund for the quarter ending on such date.

(f) The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to pay out of the Fund to any State agency such amount as it may duly requisition, not exceeding the amount standing to the account of such State agency at the time of such payment.

ADMINISTRATION, REFUNDS, AND PENALTIES

SEC. 905. (a) The tax imposed by this title shall be collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States as internal-revenue collections. (b) Not later than January 31, next following the close of the taxable year, each employer shall make a return of the tax under this title for such taxable year. Each such return shall be made under oath, shall be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which is located the principal place of business of the employer, or, if he has no principal place of business in the United States, then with the collector at Baltimore, Maryland, and shall contain such information and be made in such manner as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may by regulations prescribe. All provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of the taxes imposed by section 600 of the Revenue Act of 1926, shall, insofar as not inconsistent with this title, be applicable in respect of the tax imposed by this title. The Commissioner may extend the time for filing the return of the tax imposed by this title, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, but no such extension shall be for more than sixty days.

(c) Returns filed under this title shall be open to inspection in the same manner, to the same extent, and subject to the same provisions of law, including penalties, as returns made under Title II of the Revenue Act of 1926.

(d) The taxpayer may elect to pay the tax in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment shall be paid not later than the last day prescribed for the filing of returns, the second installment shall be paid on or before the last day of the third month, the third installment on or before the last day of the sixth month, and the fourth installment on or before the last day of the ninth month, after such last day. If the tax or any installment thereof is not paid on or before the last day of the period fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax unpaid shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

(e) At the request of the taxpayer the time for payment of the tax or any installment thereof may be extended under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, for a period not to exceed six months from the last day of the period prescribed for the payment of the tax or any installment thereof. The amount of the tax in respect of which any extension is granted shall be paid (with interest at the rate of one-half of 1 per centum per month) on or before the date of the expiration of the period of the extension.

(f) In the payment of any tax under this title a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE

SEC. 906. No person required under a State law to make payments to an unemployment fund shall be relieved from compliance therewith on the ground that he is engaged in interstate commerce, or that the State law does not distinguish between employees engaged in interstate commerce and those engaged in intrastate commerce.

SEC. 909. (a) In addition to the credit allowed under section 902, a taxpayer may, subject to the conditions imposed by section 910, credit against the tax imposed by section 901 for any taxable year after the taxable year 1937, an amount, with respect to each State law, equal to the amount, if any, by which the contributions, with respect to employment in such taxable year, actually paid by the taxpayer under such law before the date of filing his return for such taxable year, is exceeded by whichever of the following is the lesser—

(1) The amount of contributions which he would have been required to pay under such law for such taxable year if he had been subject to the highest rate applicable from time to time throughout such year to any employer under such law; or

(2) Two and seven-tenths per centum of the wages payable by him with respect to employment with respect to which contributions for such year were required under such law.

(b) If the amount of the contributions actually so paid by the taxpayer is less than the amount which he should have paid under the State law, the additional credit under subsection (a) shall be reduced proportionately.

(c) The total credits allowed to a taxpayer under this title shall not exceed 90 per centum of the tax against which such credits are taken.

CONDITIONS OF ADDITIONAL CREDIT ALLOWANCE

SEC. 910. (a) A taxpayer shall be allowed the additional credit under section 909, with respect to his contribution rate under a State law being lower, for any taxable year, than that of another employer subject to such law, only if the Board finds that under such law—

(1) Such lower rate, with respect to contributions to a pooled fund, is permitted on the basis of not less than three years of compensation experience;

(2) Such lower rate, with respect to contributions to a guaranteed employment account, is permitted only when his guaranty of employment was fulfilled in the preceding calendar year, and such guaranteed employment account amounts to not less than $7\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the total wages payable by him, in accordance with such guaranty, with respect to employment in such State in the preceding calendar year;

(3) Such lower rate, with respect to contributions to a separate reserve account, is permitted only when (A) compensation has been payable from such account throughout the preceding calendar year, and (B) such account amounts to not less than five times the largest amount of compensation paid from such account within any one of the three preceding calendar years, and (C) such accounts amounts to not less than $7\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of the total wages payable by him (plus the total wages payable by any other employers who may be contributing to such account) with respect to employment in such State in the preceding calendar year.

(b) Such additional credit shall be reduced, if any contributions under such law are made by such taxpayer at a lower rate under conditions not fulfilling the requirements of subsection (a), by the amount bearing the same ratio to such additional credit as the amount of contributions made at such lower rate bears to the total of his contributions paid for such year under such law.

(c) As used in this section—

(1) The term “reserve account” means a separate account in an unemployment fund, with respect to an employer or group of employers, from which compensation is payable only with respect to the unemployment of individuals who were in the employ of such employer, or of one of the employers comprising the group.

APPROPRIATION

SECTION 1001. For the purpose of enabling each State to furnish financial assistance, as far as practicable under the conditions in such State, to needy individuals who are blind, there is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the sum of $3,000,000, and there is hereby authorized to be appropriated for each fiscal year thereafter a sum sufficient to carry out the purposes of this title. The sums made available under this section shall be used for making payments to States which have submitted, and had approved by the Social Security Board, State plans for aid to the blind.

STATE PLANS FOR AID TO THE BLIND

SEC. 1002. (a) A State plan for aid to the blind must (1) provide that it shall be in effect in all political subdivisions of the State, and, if administered by them, be mandatory upon them; (2) provide for financial participation by the State; (3) either provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer the plan, or provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to supervise the administration of the plan; (4) provide for granting to any individual, whose claim for aid is denied, an opportunity for a fair hearing before such State agency; (5) provide such methods of administration (other than those relating to selection, tenure of office, and compensation of personnel) as are found by the Board to be necessary for the efficient operation of the plan; (6) provide that the State agency will make such reports, in such form and containing such information, as the Board may from time to time require, and comply with such provisions as the Board may from time to time find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of such reports; and (7) provide that no aid will be furnished any individual under the plan with respect to any period with respect to which he is receiving old-age assistance under the State plan approved under section 2 of this Act.

(b) The Board shall approve any plan which fulfills the conditions specified in subsection (a), except that it shall not approve any plan which imposes, as a condition of eligibility for aid to the blind under the plan—

(1) Any residence requirement which excludes any resident of the State who has resided therein five years during the nine years immediately preceding the application for aid and has resided therein continuously for one year immediately preceding the application; or

(2) Any citizenship requirement which excludes any citizen of the United States.

PAYMENT TO STATES

SEC. 1003. (a) From the sums appropriated therefor, the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to each State which has an approved plan for aid to the blind, for each quarter, beginning with the quarter commencing July 1, 1935, (1) an amount, which shall be used exclusively as aid to the blind, equal to one-half of the total of the sums expended during such quarter as aid to the blind under the State plan with respect to each individual who is blind and is not an inmate of a public institution, not counting so much of such expenditure with respect to any individual for any month as exceeds $30, and (2) 5 per centum of such amount, which shall be used for paying the costs of administering the State plan or for aid to the blind, or both, and for no other purpose.

(b) The method of computing and paying such amounts shall be as follows:

(1) The Board shall, prior to the beginning of each quarter, estimate the amount to be paid to the State for such quarter under the provisions of clause (1) of subsection (a), such estimate to be based on (A) a report filed by the State containing its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter in accordance with the provisions of such clause, and stating the amount appropriated or made available by the State and its political subdivisions for such expenditures in such quarter, and if such amount is less than one-half of the total sum of such estimated expenditures, the source or sources from which the difference is expected to be derived, (B) records showing the number of blind individuals in the State, and (C) such other investigation as the Board may find necessary.

(2) The Board shall then certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount so estimated by the Board, reduced or increased, as the case may be, by any sum by which it finds that its estimate for any prior quarter was greater or less than the amount which should have been paid to the State under clause (1) of subsection (a) for such quarter, except to the extent that such sum has been applied to make the amount certified for any prior quarter greater or less than the amount estimated by the Board for such prior quarter.

(3) The Secretary of the Treasury shall thereupon, through the Division of Disbursement of the Treasury Department and prior to audit or settlement by the General Accounting Office, pay to the State, at the time or times fixed by the Board, the amount so certified, increased by 5 per centum.

OPERATION OF STATE PLANS

SEC. 1004. In the case of any State plan for aid to the blind which has been approved by the Board, if the Board, after reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing to the State agency administering or supervising the administration of such plan, finds—

(1) that the plan has been so changed as to impose any residence or citizenship requirement prohibited by section 1002 (b), or that in the administration of the plan any such prohibited requirement is imposed, with the knowledge of such State agency, in a substantial number of cases; or the Board shall notify such State agency that further payments will not be made to the State until the Board is satisfied that such prohibited requirement is no longer so imposed, and that there is no longer any such failure to comply. Until it is so satisfied it shall make no further certification to the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to such State.

ADMINISTRATION

In addition to the families distributed here, there were in 1928, approximately 6,400,000 gainful workers outside the family units as designated by the census."

² This estimate is undoubtedly too low, since Chicago families in 1935-36, when rents were lower than in 1929, paid an average rent of $30.80 if they were in the $1,500 to $1,750 group and $34.20 if they were in the income group of $1,750 to $2,000. ² Computed to represent the number of persons dependent on the family funds for a year. Persons who were part of the "economic family" for only part of a year were counted as a fraction of a member depending on the proportion of the year each was dependent on the family funds.

³ Each person gainfully employed at any time of the year treated as one.

⁴ Current income only. Does not include money used for current expenditures but derived from bank accounts or cash received before the schedule year, from the surrender of life insurance or endowment policies, from sale of properties, from repayment of loans made before the schedule year, or by increase in debt during the year.

APPENDIX C

THE TAX IS AN EXCISE AND THEREFORE NEED NOT BE APPORTIONED

Pursuant to Article I, Section 9, of the Constitution, direct taxes must be apportioned among the States in accordance with the census. See also Article I, Section 2. It is clear, however, that the present tax is an excise, and therefore not subject to the requirement of apportionment.

Section 901 imposes on every employer covered by the Act a tax with respect to having individuals in his employ. Whether it be regarded as a tax upon the receipt of services or upon the exercise of the privilege to employ, it is unquestionably an excise, supported not only by the decisions of this Court but by English revenue practice of long standing.

As early as 1777, prior to our Constitutional Convention, the British Parliament had imposed upon every master an annual excise of twenty-one shillings "for every male servant" employed as "maitre d'hotel, house-steward, master of the horse, groom of the chamber, valet de chambre, butler, under-butler, clerk of the kitchen, confectioner, cook, house-porter, footman, running-footman, coachman, groom, postillion, stable-boy, and the respective helpers in the stables of such coachman, groom, or postillion, or in the capacity of gardener (not being a day-labourer) park-keeper, game-keeper, huntsman, whipper-in * * *". (Revenue Act of 1777, 17 George III, c. 39.) That statute, with some modifications as to rate and scope, but with no change as to general principle, served as the prototype for the Act of 1803 (43 Geo. III, c. 161); Act of 1812 (52 Geo. III, c. 93); Act of 1853 (16 and 17 Vict., c. 90); and the Act of 1869 (32 and 33 Vict., c. 14). See 24 Halsbury's Laws of England (First Edition), pp. 692 et seq. The 1869 Act is still on the statute books of England and furnishes a close analogy to the tax imposed by Title IX of the Social Security Act. The current practice of some of our States affords further support for treating this tax as an excise. Gillum v. Johnson (Supreme Court of California), 62 P. (2d) 1037 (not yet officially reported); Beeland Wholesale Co. v. Kaufman (Supreme Court of Alabama), decided March 17, 1937. Cf. Mountain Timber Co. v. Washington, 243 U. S. 219, 237, 244-245.

While it is perhaps difficult to extract from judicial pronouncement an exact and consistent definition of an excise, the numerous decisions of this Court have, merely through the process of inclusion and exclusion, marked out with a high degree of precision the boundaries of that concept. And an examination of those decisions permits no doubt that the tax herein lies well within those boundaries.

Viewed as an excise on the receipt of services, the tax finds cogent support in the excises on the receipt of property. Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U. S. 41; Scholey v. Rew, 23 Wall. 331. Or, if considered as a tax on the exercise of the privilege to employ, there is no doubt that it is an excise. The basic privilege of merely engaging in business may be subjected to an excise. Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U. S. 397; Sonzinsky v. United States, No. 614, October Term, 1936, March 29, 1937. See Maguire, Taxing the Exercise of Natural Rights, in Harvard Legal Essays (1934), pp. 273-322. Similarly, a tax on the right to do business in a particular manner, as for example, in corporate form, is an excise and not a direct tax. Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U. S. 107; Stratton's Independence v. Howbert, 231 U. S. 399; Anderson v. Forty-two Broadway Co., 239 U. S. 69; Railroad Co. v. Collector, 100 U. S. 595. It follows without question that one of the incidents of the right to engage in business, namely, the right to employ, is an appropriate subject for an excise. In no sense can it be said that the tax is imposed because of general ownership of property. Cf. Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U. S. 429, 158 U. S. 601.

Considered in their entirety,¹ the decisions of this Court on the excise question remove all doubt

¹ Thus, in addition to the taxes considered above, the Court has sustained a tax on the use of carriages for the conveyance of persons (Hylton v. United States, 3 Dall 171); a tax on the issuance of state bank notes (Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. 533); a tax on the selling of lottery tickets and liquor (License Tax Cases, 5 Wall. 462; South Carolina v. United States, 199 U. S. 437; Ohio v. Helvering, 292 U. S. 360; United States v. Yuginovich, 256 U. S. 450; Wainer v. United States, 299 U. S. 92); a tax on articles "manufactured, sold, or removed for sale" (United States v. American Chicle Co., 256 U. S. 446); a tax on manufactured tobacco having reference to its origin and intended use (Patton v. Brady, 184 U. S. 608; Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. v. United States, Nos. 161-163, 1936 Term, January 4, 1937; a tax

APPENDIX D

THE "ADDITIONAL CREDIT" PROVIDED FOR BY SECTION 909 DOES NOT AFFECT THE VALIDITY OF THIS TAX

In arguing in the main portion of this brief that the tax imposed by Section 901 is not repugnant to the Tenth Amendment, we have dealt with the tax itself and with the normal credit and the conditions attached thereto by Sections 902 and 903. In our opinion the normal credit is the only credit which requires analysis in the case at bar, since no other credit is available until 1938. However, out of an abundance of caution, we shall explain here the additional credit allowed by Sections 909 and 910, and demonstrate that it has no present bearing on the tax now imposed on the petitioner, that if it were presently relevant it would not be repugnant to the Constitution, and that even if the additional credit were unconstitutional, the remainder of the Title, including the tax, would not be affected thereby.

1. THE PURPOSE AND SCOPE OF THE ADDITIONAL CREDIT ALLOWED BY SECTIONS 909 AND 910

In order to understand the purpose and scope of Sections 909 and 910, it is necessary to have in mind the different types of unemployment compensation funds which it is conceivable that a State might establish. So far as Congress was aware,¹ and so far as we are aware, there are only three main types of unemployment compensation funds, though the variations within, and combinations of, these types are numerous:

(1) The first type is a pooled unemployment fund, defined in Section 910 (c) (2), in which all contributions are commingled and from which payments of compensation are made to unemployed workmen without reference to the employer for whom they had worked.² In connection with such a fund, a State sometimes³ provides that a separate bookkeeping account be kept for each employer, showing what he contributed and what his workmen drew, and further provides that those employers whose records merited such treatment should in the future contribute at an increased reduced rate. Such reduced rates are commonly called "merit ratings."

(2) The second type provides for separate unemployment reserve accounts,⁴ defined in Section 910 (c) (1). Under such a system, each employer makes his contributions into a specially segregated

² For example, Alabama, California, the District of Columbia, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New York, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Washington have laws providing for pooled unemployment funds

³ Of the States mentioned in the preceding footnote, all except New York enacted laws providing for merit ratings.

⁴ For example, Wisconsin enacted laws providing for separate unemployment reserve accounts, and Indiana has a law providing for reserve accounts together with partial pooling account, and each workman when he becomes unemployed must look for compensation to the particular unemployment reserve account accumulated by his former employers. In connection with such a fund, a State ordinarily provides that after his account has accumulated to a certain point, and has shown an ability to withstand the drain of benefit payments, an employer shall in the future either not contribute, or contribute at an increased or reduced rate.

(3) A State might, in connection with,⁵ or independently of, one of the two preceding plans, provide for guaranteed employment accounts, defined in Section 910 (c) (3). By this plan, an employer undertakes to give a certain minimum period of employment during the year to each of his employees, and at the same time contributes to an account or fund which can be drawn on by any of his employees as to whom the guaranty is not fulfilled or renewed. Such a plan provides that an employer who has fulfilled his guaranty in the past shall in the future either not contribute or contribute at an increased or reduced rate.

From the brief description just given it is plain that no matter what type of unemployment compensation system is established, a state law might have provisions whereby the contributions required of an individual employer would be fixed in proportion to the employer's proved experience in preventing unemployment among his workers. Such provisions have a uniform purpose: they are designed to furnish a separate classification for employers who reduce the volume of unemployment which otherwise must be borne by either the unemployment funds, state relief or federal relief.

In view of the inclusion of such provisions in state legislation, which was foreseen, and in view of the purpose of such inclusions, the rationale of Sections 909 and 910 becomes plain. Congress recognized that if it allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by Section 901 only the amounts actually paid into a state unemployment fund, it would destroy the significance of the classification established by the state law. The lower rate offered by the State to employers who had proved that their enterprises belonged in a different class would enure not to the benefit of the employer but to the benefit of the Federal Government. The employer would be no better off for his state merit rating since he would have a smaller amount to deduct from his federal tax. Sections 909 and 910 have been embodied in Title IX in order to increase freedom of state choice⁶ and give significance to a classification based on an individual employer's proven success in reducing local and federal expenditures.

Section 909 (a) provides that "in addition to the credit allowed under section 902, a taxpayer may, * * * credit against the tax imposed by section 901 for any taxable year after the taxable year 1937, an amount * * * equal to the amount * * * by which the contributions * * * actually paid by the taxpayer * * * is exceeded by * * * (1) The amount of contributions which he would have been required to pay under such [State] law for such taxable year if he had been subject to the highest rate applicable from time to time throughout such year to any employer under such law.”⁷ [Italics supplied.]

Two sets of limitations, however, are imposed on this additional credit. First, under no circumstances can the taxpayer entirely escape paying at least part of the federal tax levied under Section 901: it is specifically provided that “the total credits allowed to a taxpayer under this title shall not exceed 90 per centum of the tax against which such credits are taken.” Section 909 (c).

A second set of limitations is equally simple in objective, though, because of technical difficulties, the formulation of them in Section 910 is necessarily more complicated. These limitations are designed to make certain that the Federal Government does not reduce the tax on the basis of a state classification unless such state classification is in fact what it purports to be:⁸ i. e., a distinction based on tests indicating whether the reduced rate can safely be allowed without endangering the purpose of the law. There are only two such tests, experience and reserve. A given employer's experience indicates whether extensive unemployment is likely to occur among his employees. The amount of a reserve indicates whether, even if such unemployment should occur, the right of the employers to benefits is sufficiently protected. Section 910 (a) sets forth the appropriate tests in each case.

⁷ Section 909 (a) (2) applies only when an employer carries on business in 2 or more States, and in such a situation it is designed to avoid the use of Section 909 (a) (1) to secure credits which are unduly large and which discriminate against employers who operate in only a single State. A supposititious case will illustrate the rare situation Section 909 (a) (2) covers. Suppose in 1940 an employer, X, had one establishment in State A with a payroll of $100,000 annually, and another establishment in State B with a like payroll of $100,000. State A has no unemployment compensation law. State B has a law under which ordinary employers pay at the rate of 5%, but X, on account of his merit rating, pays at the rate of 1%, i.e., $1,000. Under Section 901, the federal tax is $3,000 for operations in each State, or a total of $6,000. Under Section 902 the taxpayer is entitled to a credit of $1,000. If it were not for Section 909 (a) (2), the operation of Section 909 (a) (1) would give him an additional credit of $4,000. However, Section 909 (a) (2) cuts the additional credit down to $1,700, thus preventing the taxpayer from using a state law applicable to operations in State B to reduce a tax levied on account of operations in State A.

In the case of a pooled fund, the test of a reserve is inapplicable, since no separate reserve is maintained for individual employers. The sole available test is therefore that of experience, and clause (1) requires no more than that the reduced rate be based on three years of experience. In the case of a guaranteed employment account, the amount of reserve available is an adequate test,

⁸ The conditions embodied in Section 910 make certain that the additional credit will be allowed only when the State grants a reduction in contribution rate under circumstances that leave unimpaired the solvency and workability of the state unemployment compensation plan. To put it differently—Section 903 defines an unemployment compensation law, so that credits will be restricted to contributions to such a law and no other; similarly, Section 910 defines the conditions under which contribution rates may be reduced without destroying the character of the unemployment compensation law as such and the requirement that the account amount to 7½ percent of the wages payable in the preceding year is employed, in addition to the fulfillment of the guaranty in the preceding year. In the case of a separate reserve account, a similar condition is stated, plus an additional test that the reserve must also amount to not less than five times the largest amount of unemployment compensation paid within any of the three preceding years. This condition is appropriate only in the case of a separate reserve account, and not in the case of a guaranteed employment account, since guaranteed employment presupposes the payment of the guaranteed wages rather than of unemployment compensation, and the test of compensation previously paid is therefore not available.

2. THE ADDITIONAL CREDIT HAS NO PRESENT BEARING ON THE TAX NOW IN QUESTION

Although, for the convenience of the Court, we have explained the additional credit, we do not regard it as in issue in this case. It is undeniable that the additional credit cannot be taken except in connection with "the tax imposed by section 901 for any taxable year after the taxable year 1937." [Italics supplied.] Section 909 (a).

Section 901 enumerates three different rates of tax: a one per cent tax "with respect to employment during the calendar year 1936"; a two per cent tax "with respect to employment during the calendar year 1937"; and a three per cent tax "with respect to employment after December 31, 1937." Congress was willing to allow an additional credit only during and after the third year, when a high tax yield insured increased revenue. In imposing taxes for 1936 and 1937, when the rate was low, it permitted no such offset. Since the petitioner's complaint is limited to the 1936 tax, it has no concern with an additional credit available only in future years against future taxes which, if they are not entirely different, are, at least, at different rates. By the time the additional credit is available, this petitioner may not be in business.

Moreover, the petitioner cannot show that the additional credit will ever come into operation. Congress may repeal the additional credit provisions before their effective date. If in 1938 the provisions have not been repealed, none the less, there may not be a single State which will then have a law under which merit ratings are allowed. In 1938 there may not be a single taxpayer whose employment record entitles him to secure from a State a lower rate of unemployment contributions.

Under these circumstances, the consideration of the additional credit provisions is not alone premature, it is irrelevant to this tax and to these taxpayers. Premier-Pabst Sales Co. v. Grosscup, 298 U. S. 226; Hatch v. Reardon, 204 U. S. 152, 160, 161.

3. THE ADDITIONAL CREDIT, CONSIDERED ALONE OR IN CONNECTION WITH OTHER PROVISIONS OF TITLE IX, IS NOT REPUGNANT TO THE TENTH AMENDMENT

If Sections 909 and 910 are at issue in the case at bar, we contend that the additional credit, there offered, whether considered alone or in connection with other provisions of Title IX, is not repugnant to the Tenth Amendment and does not involve penalties, economic coercion, or federal regulation of matters not within the power of Congress.

We have in the main brief pointed out the scope of the penalty doctrine and the doctrine of economic coercion: Congress cannot prescribe a detailed course of conduct in a field reserved to the States and then either punish departures from it or offer irresistible inducements to follow it. We have also pointed out that these doctrines did not apply to the tax or to the normal credit because under their combined operation a taxpayer could in no event reduce his out-of-pocket expenses or increase his receipts. While, by the additional credit a taxpayer may secure a reduction, though not a complete elimination,⁹ of his financial burdens if his State has classified him as an employer whose past employment experience or whose present reserves justify a lower contribution rate, there are significant factors which make these doctrines inapplicable. In the first place, the reduction of the individual's financial burdens is primarily accomplished by the state law, and is merely acceded to or recognized by the federal law. Hence it cannot be said that any course of conduct has been prescribed by Congress, or that any federal regulation is involved.

Nor can it accurately be said that Congress has left the way open to the States to prescribe a course of conduct which, if followed by the taxpayer, will pari passu reduce the tax. A State which provides for higher and lower contribution rates on the basis set forth in Section 910 in no true sense prescribes a course of conduct or offers a lower rate to one who complies with regulations. The State in establishing different rates draws a distinction based, not on the contemporaneous or future conduct of an employer, or on his contemporaneous or future compliance with a detailed pattern of conduct, but on the already proven or established character of his enterprise. If an employer has the sort of enterprise which in the past paid more in contributions than in benefits, or if an employer already has the sort of enterprise which is protected by a reserve account, he gets a lower rate. To recognize an already existing difference is not to penalize, nor to coerce, nor to regulate, but, as many cases teach us, to classify. Mountain Timber Co. v. Washington, 243 U. S. 219, 241-242; Tax Commissioners v. Jackson, 283 U. S. 527; Fox v. Standard Oil Co., 294 U. S. 87; Morf v. Bingaman, 298 U. S. 407.¹⁰

¹⁰ Of course, the fact that an employer's enterprise may, after its character has changed, become subject to a different rate does not show that it is being regulated rather than classified. A higher tax may be imposed on a store if it becomes part of a chain, Tax Commissioners v. Jackson, supra; or on an automobile if it becomes part of a caravan, Morf v. Bingaman, supra. Likewise a different rate may be given to an employer's enterprise if a record of experience shows that it pays more in contributions than its workers receive in benefits, or if it has accumulated a reserve. The new rate depends not on the employer's conduct but on the sort of enterprise he owns when the rate is fixed.

Recognition by the Federal Government of classifications established by state law is neither penal nor coercive. It is, as we have shown in the main body of our brief, supported by ample precedent.¹¹ Moreover, in the statute now under review such recognition has a particular merit, since it avoids a restriction on freedom of state policy. Unless the additional credit were allowed, a State could not effectively give the employer the benefit of a rating based on his past employment record. Indeed, it may be noted that the classification here

The unquestioned validity of the last tax statute mentioned (3 Stat. 186) was referred to in Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U. S. 41 (footnote, pp. 94, 95), and Patton v. Brady, 184 U. S. 608.

The additional credits allowed by Section 909 are directly within the tradition of this legislative practice.

recognized serves a federal as well as a state purpose, since it allows a lower federal tax to one who by reducing unemployment, or by reason of a reserve account, lessens an otherwise probable drain on the Federal Treasury.

A final word should perhaps be added pointing out that the conditions set forth in Section 910 are not regulatory. The conditions do not in any way limit the States in allowing any reduction or differences in rate that may accord with local policy. The conditions merely make certain that, before a reduction allowed under state law is made the basis of an additional credit under federal law, the reduction is given on the basis either of the employer's past experience or on the basis of the reserve he has accumulated. Unless the state reduction were based on the basis of experience or reserve, the state law might not be a true unemployment compensation measure.

4 IF THE ADDITIONAL CREDITS ARE UNCONSTITUTIONAL, THE REMAINDER OF TITLE IX, INCLUDING THE TAX, IS NOT AFFECTED THEREBY

If, contrary to our view, the Court should conclude that the additional credits allowed by Sections 909 and 910 are here involved and are unconstitutional, we contend that the remainder of the Title, including the tax, is not affected thereby.

Section 1103 of the Social Security Act provides that:

If any provision of this Act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the remainder of the Act, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

The presumption of separability which this quoted section furnishes is strongly supported by the order in which Title IX is arranged. First come Sections 901 to 908, inclusive, which in themselves constitute a complete enactment: Section 901 imposes the tax; Sections 902 to 904, inclusive, include provisions with respect to credit against the tax; Section 905 provides for administration; Section 906 grants to States a power to require contributions from persons engaged in interstate commerce; Section 907 lists a number of definitions applicable only to the preceding sections; and Section 908 authorizes government officials to make rules and regulations. It is only after all these provisions that Sections 909 and 910 are set forth as additional features. Section 910 includes its own set of definitions which are not applicable to anything other than the additional credit. Furthermore, as we have already pointed out, the additional credit is not to become operative until two years after the rest of the Title becomes operative. From all these evidences of intention, there can be no doubt that Congress intended the tax to stand even if the additional credit were held unconstitutional. Moreover, it is well settled that when an exemption from a tax which is not an essential part of the scheme is invalid, the exemption falls without affecting the remainder of the tax. Utah Power & Light Co. v. Pfost, 286 U. S. 165, 184-185; Huntington v. Worthen, 120 U. S. 97, 102; cf. National Life Ins. Co. v. United States, 277 U. S. 508, 522.
